Troika is a renowned art collective which brings together three extraordinary artists. The three are close friends with their own successful careers who have chosen to collaborate on a series of projects devised around their passion for music, film and contemporary culture. They work together on every canvas and liken the experience to playing in a band where the guitarist, singer or drummer may be taking the lead at a particular moment, but they are still creating the music together.

Troika's vibrant mixed media compositions translate seamlessly into limited editions. The extraordinary impact of these works has then been enhanced by gold leaf, which is applied by hand to each individual piece giving them a stunning and richly textured finish.

original art

Working in 'the Bunker', their underground studio, Troika begin each new work by preparing stencils and patterns which they do digitally. They then treat the canvas using mixed media and painted elements inspired by oriental or urban graphics, including spray paints, inks, acrylics and oils, and layer the stencils to build up the image, often placing a figurative element as the final step.
